In spite of some construction sites during our journey, the majority of the roads are asphalt, wide and well maintained. Nearly 30% of the trip will be along the Trisuli River before leaving the national road. After 100 kilometers, our route will divert westward, leaving behind us the national road to Pokhara. The air becomes much cooler and the landscape lush. Along the way, we stop for a typical Nepalese lunch.

The traffic with the local buses and jeeps intensifies.

The landscape is typically Nepalese, with a lush forest, small terraces of vegetation and tiny typical houses. Another exciting part of our trip today is the Kaligandi River, which we will follow for almost 50% of our journey. At the end of the day we reach the authentic lodge, where
